Fully assembled, a pistol with the Kimber Platinum Conversion is about four ounces lighter than the same pistol set up to shoot .45 ACP.

Kimber is now offering a complete conversion kit that changes Kimber and other mil-spec 1911 pistols to .22 LR in seconds. Installation is as simple as field stripping. Both satin blue and satin silver versions are available and suggested list price is $299.95.

Each Kimber Platinum .22 LR Conversion Kit includes a complete upper assembly. The aluminum slide features the same front and rear beveled slide serrations and adjustable target sight as Kimber's top-of-the-line Gold Match .45. To enhance accuracy, a premium bull barrel is fitted directly to the slide without a barrel bushing. Each kit includes one ten round magazine. A full length guide rod with shock buffer is standard.

Kimber's .22 LR conversion kit is ideal for teaching proper pistol skills. Competition shooters will find it to be a great way to practice. The kit can pay for itself in less than one season of average shooting through ammunition savings.

Unlike some kits, the Kimber is designed so dry firing will not damage the chamber. It also uses the same mainspring for rimfire as it does for .45 ACP. It works equally well with both full size and compact frames, although the magazine does extend below the grip on compacts. The Kimber conversion also works well with just about every brand and type of .22 LR ammunition.
